

COVID-19 FAQ FOR FOOD BANKS

BEST PRACTICES AND COMMUNICATION

WHAT BEST PRACTICES SHOULD BE IMPLEMENTED?

- Staff and volunteers should practice hand hygiene, use gloves when handling money, and handle and package items for customers if possible.
- Consider increasing practicality of social distancing by staggering entry or only allowing small groups of people in at a time.
- Mask use should be encouraged as they may reduce the spread of disease to healthy people.

WHAT INFORMATION SHOULD BE COMMUNICATED TO CUSTOMERS?

- Staff, volunteers and customers should not come to the food bank if they are displaying symptoms of COVID-19, or have come in contact with someone who has had symptoms.
- Consider communicating to customers through signs, social media or newsletters.
- Proactively reach out to county health departments.

IS THERE A PROTOCOL IN THE EVENT AN EMPLOYEE OR CUSTOMER IS DIAGNOSED WITH COVID-19 OR THINKS THEY HAVE IT?

- Each food bank should have policies and procedures in place for employee health and wellness.
- You should be sure that sick employees and volunteers do not report to work and you should suggest they see a doctor.
- If you have a sick employee or customer, report it to the health department. If the health department is not responding, be persistent.
- CDC advises that you should provide instructions to employees/guests on what to do if they develop symptoms within 14 days after their last possible exposure to the virus.

For more info, visit: www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov

Contact: Laurel Dunn, Ph.D.
University of Georgia
Assistant Professor and Extension Food Safety Specialist
Email: laurel.dunn@uga.edu

Updated April 8, 2020 (supersedes all previous versions)