

Help prevent avian influenza in Georgia

Currently, avian influenza (AI) is not a threat to human health or food safety in Georgia. AI poses a risk to all poultry operations, from backyard flocks to the state's $22.8 billion commercial industry. The key to preventing the spread of the disease is biosecurity. All bird owners should take measures to prevent the exposure of flocks to AI.

Watch for the following symptoms in your flock:

report
a case online

(770) 766-6850

Contact the avian influenza hotline at the Georgia Department of Agriculture with questions and concerns or to report a suspected case.

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
College of Agricultural & Environmental Sciences

University of Georgia

Georgia Department of Agriculture

Additional Avian Influenza resources: