

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA
EXTENSION

Franklin County

Franklin County Extension collaborates with local producers to offer educational opportunities and continuing education classes. The agent assists with nutrient management planning, helping producers secure over $13 million in federal grants for stackhouse construction over the past five years. Since the 2024–2025 school year began, Franklin County 4-H has welcomed over 350 new members from elementary to high school, including homeschoolers. These youth participate in various activities like Project Achievement, archery, judging events, leadership conferences, and summer camp. 4-H empowers them to find and channel their spark in serving the community and taking on leadership roles.

A healthy Georgia is a better Georgia.

University of Georgia Cooperative Extension offers programming focused on mental health, financial well-being, nutrition and everything in between. UGA Extension had 1,756,355 face-to-face contacts in 2024. Of these, 200,067 contacts addressed health and wellness topics, including rural and farm stress.

Extension is committed to helping rural Georgia farmers and families thrive. UGA Extension provides physical and mental health resources to keep rural Georgia growing stronger, especially when times are tough. Our new Behavioral Health Team provides fact sheets, trainings and a weekly blog—all to help Georgia individuals and families thrive.

Growing cities.

UGA Extension helps urban gardeners develop school gardens, community gardens and urban farms to benefit their communities. Extension works with educators to create sustainable outdoor classrooms that function as successful teaching tools. Community gardeners are supported in growing healthy food crops in small spaces while urban farmers are encouraged to apply the latest agricultural research to grow their businesses.

Committed to Georgia's youth.

Georgia's 4-H enrolled 193,518 youths across the state during the 2023–24 school year.
