

Washington County

Washington County 4-H continues building our youth programming. District Project Achievement, monthly classroom meetings covering topics like opioids, relationships, leadership, livestock projects, project SAFE and various camps are important ways we assist with youth development. Timber, beef and corn lead the way in a county with over $70 million in farm gate value. Washington County has had producers recognized locally, statewide and even nationally for crop yields and quality. Agents working in Agriculture & Natural Resources and Family & Consumer Sciences have worked together with the sheriff's department to bring classes and skills training to members of the residential substance abuse program.

A healthy Georgia is a better Georgia.

University of Georgia Cooperative Extension offers programming focused on mental health, financial well-being, nutrition and everything in between. UGA Extension had 1,756,355 face-to-face contacts in 2024. Of these, 200,067 contacts addressed health and wellness topics, including rural and farm stress.

Extension is committed to helping rural Georgia farmers and families thrive. UGA Extension provides physical and mental health resources to keep rural Georgia growing stronger, especially when times are tough. Our new Behavioral Health Team provides fact sheets, trainings and a weekly blog—all to help Georgia individuals and families thrive.

Growing cities.

UGA Extension helps urban gardeners develop school gardens, community gardens and urban farms to benefit their communities. Extension works with educators to create sustainable outdoor classrooms that function as successful teaching tools. Community gardeners are supported in growing healthy food crops in small spaces while urban farmers are encouraged to apply the latest agricultural research to grow their businesses.

Committed to Georgia's youth.

Georgia's 4-H enrolled 193,518 youths across the state during the 2023-24 school year.
